

A detailed map of Southern Slovakia serves as the background. It shows major cities like Bratislava, Trnava, Nitra, and Znojmo, as well as various national parks and smaller towns. Overlaid on the map are several red circles of varying sizes, which represent architectural intervention points. These circles are concentrated in the southern part of the map, particularly around the cities of Znojmo, Šaľa, and Komárno. The text 'Architektonické intervencie na južnom Slovensku' is centered over the map in a large, white, sans-serif font.
